Hospital spans a century

MINNESOTA MATRY John E. Simon, head of Waverly by Braman University Hospital, in Ralph McPea, University Hospital, first hospital in the world for isolation of tuberculosis patients. in 1918, Braman University Hospital, located in St. Paul, Minnesota, was completed. The hospital was designed by Frank E. Brush, a member of the First World War in France. The hospital was completed in 1921 and consisted of 200 beds, with an average daily cost of $5 per patient.

Plans for a new facility began in 1928, and the new hospital was designed by Frank E. Brush again. The new hospital was completed in 1931 and consisted of 500 beds, with an average daily cost
of $10 per patient.

The hospital was a success, and it continues to serve the community today.

NURSES ROSE on the steps of Waverly's first hospital and long after it opened in 1906.